課程宗旨： Digital platforms, defined as a digital place where multiple parties jointly create value for customers, have become an integrated part of a firm's strategy and our lives. In fact, way back to 2013, 14 of the 30 largest brands in the world were platform companies. Platform-based companies (e.g., Google, Facebook, Amazon, eBay, VISA, Mastercard, etc.) have merged as a dominant force in reshaping the landscape where and how businesses compete. Platform-based strategies transform the old economy to a new one where netizens handle their daily lives on the Internet. Given this mega trend, a deeper understanding of this direction of change is indispensable. Therefore, this course aims to explore the unique features of a multi-sided platform and associated strategic challenges from theoretic foundations and practices to equip students with capabilities to rethink the impact of Internet-based platforms on strategy, marketing, operations, and the most importantly, the economic fundamentals upon which the business is built.
